

Learning Together with Young Children

Acknowledgments xi

Introduction 1

Questioning Current Thinking and Approaches	2
Definitions of Quality Are Inadequate	2
Factories Serve as a Model for Education	3
Teachers Lack Philosophical Foundations	4
Adults View Children as Needing to Be “Readied” and Fixed	5
Play Is Not Considered a Viable Source of Curriculum	5
Child-Directed and Teacher-Directed Approaches Are Presented as Opposed and Mutually Exclusive	6
No Program Infrastructures to Support Teachers’ Reflective Practice	6
Teachers and Programs Are Required to Adopt Quantifiable “Research-based” Curricula	7
A New Way	8

Chapter 1: A Curriculum Framework for Reflective Teaching 9

Learning Together with Young Children: The Curriculum Framework	10
Create a Nourishing Classroom Culture	11
Enhance the Curriculum with Materials	12
Bring Yourself to the Teaching and Learning Process	13
Coach Children to Learn about Learning	15
Dig Deeper to Learn with Children	15
Adapt the Curriculum for Different Settings	17
Claim Your Responsibility to Live Fully and Teach Well	18
Understanding the Structure of This Book	19

Chapter 2: Create a Nourishing Classroom Culture 22

Involve Children in Welcoming Families 23

Honor Each Family’s Uniqueness 25

Invest in Relationships with the Whole Family 26

Keep Children Connected to Their Families 31

Gather Families for Explorations 33

Focus on Relationships, Not Rules 35

Arrange Your Space and Routines to Promote Community 36

Give Children Ownership of Routines and Schedules 39

Use Children’s Ideas to Pursue Investigations 42

Help Children See Themselves as Learners 45

Coach Children to Develop Negotiation and Collaboration Skills 47

Develop Rituals That Create Memories 48

Celebrate Real Accomplishments 50

Chapter 3: Enhance the Curriculum with Materials 54

Examining the Elements and Possibilities in Materials 55

 Select Materials Using an Enhanced View of Children 56

 Invent New Possibilities for Familiar Materials 57

 Draw on the Aesthetic Qualities of Materials 60

 Choose Materials That Can Be Transformed 63

 Provide Real Tools and Quality Materials 67

 Supply Materials to Extend Children’s Interests 69

 Layer Materials to Offer Complexity 71

Arranging Materials as Invitations for Focus and Intention 74

 Create Orderly, Beautiful Arrangements 75

 Provide a Background for the Materials 76

 Store Diverse Items in Matching Containers 77

 Group Together Similar Materials with Different Attributes 78

 Give Attention to Size, Scale, and Levels 79

 Arrange Materials to Suggest How They Might Be Used 80

 Reposition Materials to Spark a New Interest 81

 Display Books and Other Visual Representations with the Materials 82

 Offer Collections of Materials to Highlight a Learning Domain 82

Chapter 4: Bring Yourself to the Teaching and Learning Process 86

Claim Your Power 87

Think Through Your Actions 88

Cultivate a Mindset of Receptivity 94

Seek the Child’s Point of View 96

Notice the Details to Discover More Possibilities 100

Share Conversations Following the Children’s Lead 101

Support Children’s Connections with Each Other 104

Take Action on Behalf of Children’s Strengths 108

Chapter 5: Coach Children to Learn about Learning 111

Help Children See Learning as a Process with Distinct Components They Can Practice 113

Invite Children to Assess Their Own Learning 117

Coach Children to Use Tools and Strategies for Learning 118

Plan Coaching Sessions Separately from Playtime 121

Help Children Use Reference Materials to Support
Their Learning 125

Teach Children to Look Closely 128

Teach Children to Draw in Order to See More Clearly 130

Offer Stories and Dramas as Tools for Coaching 132

Support Children to Learn from Their Friends 134

Chapter 6: Dig Deeper to Learn with Children 139

Challenge Children to Go a Step Further in Their Pursuits 140

Help Children Represent Their Ideas with Multiple Materials 144

Tap into Children’s Love of Songs and Music 149

Draw on Children’s Deep Fascination with Drama and Magical Thinking 152

Harness Children’s Instinctive Drive to Use Their Bodies 157

Build on Children’s Attention for the Natural World 161

Explore Children’s Theories for Deeper Learning 167

Reflect Children’s Ideas Back to Them with Documentation 170

Chapter 7: Adapt the Curriculum Framework for Different Settings 174

Focus Your Documentation on a Process 175

Invent New Ways to Meet Requirements 178

Expand Possibilities for Prescribed Curriculum	184
Document Everyday Experiences That Meet Standards	187
Make Assessments Relevant and Meaningful	190
Seek Different Perspectives to Inform Your Planning	196
Learn from Conflicting Ideas	199
Chapter 8: Claim Your Responsibility to Live Fully and Teach Well	203
Find Colleagues to Support Your Learning	204
Take Risks to Try New Things	205
Visit Inspiring Programs	206
Explore the Question “Why?” to Challenge Thinking	208
Take Leadership for Change	208
Appendix A: Tools to Help Clarify Your Current Perspectives and Foundations	211
Self-Assessment Tool	212
Values, Theory, and Pedagogy	214
Appendix B: Sample Curriculum and Assessment Statements	217
Mid-America Head Start Constructivist Curriculum Plan	218
Puget Sound ESD Head Start Curriculum Statement	222
Assessment for Learning in Aotearoa/New Zealand	224
Assessment from the Child’s Perspective	228
Early Education Advocates	229
Appendix C: Sample Planning Forms	231
Appendix D: Sample Advocacy Efforts	243
A Manifesto	244
A Declaration of Values	248
Child Care Business Structure—A New Model	250
References	252
Index	255