Chapter 7: Caring for Infants and Toddlers

Share Your Reflections with Deb

Write a message to Deb Curtis with your reflections on how she learned to negotiate the curriculum to respect her toddlers' ways in the world in "Riding the Waves Again: About Returning to Work with Toddlers."

Consider including your thoughts about the following:

- What did Deb learn about herself in the initial story and in her reflections a decade later?
- What new insights did Deb learn about the children's perspectives?
- How would you describe Deb's view of the toddlers she works with?
- How did her view of the role of the teacher change in her work with toddlers?
